

Irradiation Policy

As a matter of policy, the Chilli Doctor Ltd. sources ingredients from around the world which have not been subjected to ionising radiation. This requirement is clearly stated on our product specifications and terms and conditions documents. Suppliers are also required to sign a declaration that products supplied to the Chilli Doctor have not been irradiated.

In addition, the Chilli Doctor carries out a risk assessment of the supply chain and, where necessary, product testing using a standard method will be carried out.

However, if a customer requested an irradiated product, the Chilli Doctor would consider supply, subject to commercial agreement and complete compliance with EU regulations regarding labelling, dosage, facility approval and product type.
